

Practice Standard

Indigenous Cultural Safety, Humility, and Anti-racism

Practice Standards are legally enforceable standards which set out requirements related to specific aspects of naturopathic doctors' practice. Practice standards are provided for under s. 19 of the Health Professions Act. They link with other standards, policies, and bylaws of the College of Naturopathic Physicians of BC, and all legislation relevant to the practice of naturopathic medicine.

Introduction

Eleven health profession regulatory colleges adopted a common joint Cultural Safety and Humility and Indigenous-specific anti-racism practice standard for registrants. This practice standard supports the College's joint apology and commitment to action signed on July 27, 2021. The Colleges that have participated to this work are the College of Chiropractors of BC, the College of Dietitians of BC, the College of Naturopathic Physicians of BC, the College of Occupational Therapists of BC, the College of Opticians of BC, the College of Optometrists of BC, the College of Pharmacists of BC, the College of Physical Therapists of BC, the College of Psychologists of BC, the College of Speech and Hearing Health Professionals of BC and the College of Traditional Chinese Medicine Practitioners and Acupuncturists of BC. The work was also guided by Sulksun (Shane Pointe) Proud member of the Coast Salish Nation, Musqueam Indian Band and Knowledge Keeper to all and Joe Gallagher (k'wunəməŋ), Tla'amin Nation, principal at Qoqoq Consulting Ltd.

The Standard is adapted with permission from the BCCNM and CPSBC Indigenous Cultural Safety, Cultural Humility and Anti-racism Practice Standard, developed collaboratively by the BC College of Nurses & Midwives and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of BC (Jan 2022). The development of their Standard involved extensive consultation with Indigenous people and guidance from Indigenous leaders.

Core Concepts & Principles

1. SELF-REFLECTIVE PRACTICE (IT STARTS WITH ME)

Cultural humility begins with a self-examination of the health professional's values, assumptions, beliefs, and privileges embedded in their own knowledge and practice, and consideration of how this may impact the therapeutic relationship with Indigenous clients. Cultural humility promotes relationships based on respect, open and effective dialogue, and mutual decision-making.

Principles

Health professionals:

- 1.1 Reflect on, identify, and do not act on any stereotypes or assumptions they may hold about Indigenous Peoples.
- 1.2 Reflect on how their privileges, biases, values, belief structures, behaviours, and positions of power may impact the therapeutic relationship with Indigenous clients.
- 1.3 Evaluate and seek feedback on their own behaviour towards Indigenous Peoples.

2. BUILDING KNOWLEDGE THROUGH EDUCATION

Health professionals continually seek to improve their ability to provide culturally safe care for Indigenous clients.

Principles

Health professionals:

- 2.1 Undertake ongoing education on Indigenous health care, determinants of health, cultural safety, cultural humility, and anti-racism.
- 2.2 Learn about the negative impact of Indigenous-specific racism on Indigenous clients accessing the health care system, and its disproportionate impact on Indigenous women and girls and two-spirit, queer, and trans Indigenous Peoples.
- 2.3 Learn about the historical and current impacts of colonialism on Indigenous Peoples and how this may impact their health care experiences.
- 2.4 Learn about the Indigenous communities located in the areas where they work, recognizing that languages, histories, heritage, cultural practices, and systems of knowledge may differ between Indigenous communities.

3. ANTI-RACIST PRACTICE (TAKING ACTION)

Health professionals take active steps to identify, address, prevent, and eliminate Indigenous-specific racism.

Principles

Health professionals:

3.1 Take appropriate action when they observe others acting in a racist or discriminatory manner towards Indigenous Peoples by:

3.1.1 Helping colleagues to identify and eliminate racist attitudes, language, or behaviour.

3.1.2 Supporting clients, colleagues and others who experience and/or report acts of racism.

3.1.3 Reporting acts of racism to leadership and/or the relevant health regulatory college.

4. CREATING SAFE HEALTH CARE EXPERIENCES

Health professionals facilitate safe health care experiences where Indigenous clients' physical, mental/emotional, spiritual, and cultural needs can be met.

Principles

Health professionals:

4.1 Treat clients with respect and empathy by:

4.1.1 Acknowledging the client's cultural identity.

4.1.2 Listening to and seeking to understand the client's lived experiences.

4.1.3 Treating clients and their families with compassion.

4.1.4 Being open to learning from the client and others.

4.2 Care for a client holistically, considering their physical, mental/emotional, spiritual, and cultural needs.

4.3 Acknowledge and incorporate into the plan of care Indigenous cultural rights, values, and practices, including ceremonies and protocols related to illness, birth, and death, where able.

4.4 Facilitate the involvement of the client's family and others (e.g., community and Elders, Indigenous cultural navigators, and interpreters) as needed and requested.

5. PERSON-LED CARE (RELATIONAL CARE)

Health professionals work collaboratively with Indigenous clients to meet the client's health and wellness goals.

Principles

Health professionals:

5.1 Respectfully learn about the client and the reasons the client has sought health care services.

- 5.2 Engage with clients and their identified supports to identify, understand, and address the client's health and wellness goals.
- 5.3 Actively support the client's right to decide on their course of care.
- 5.4 Communicate effectively with clients by:
 - 5.4.1 Providing the client with the necessary time and space to share their needs and goals.
 - 5.4.2 Providing clear information about the health care options available, including information about what the client may experience during the health care encounter.
 - 5.4.3 Ensuring information is communicated in a way that the client can understand.

6. STRENGTHS-BASED AND TRAUMA-INFORMED PRACTICE (LOOKING BELOW THE SURFACE)

Health professionals have knowledge about different types of trauma and their impact on Indigenous clients, including how intergenerational and historical trauma affects many Indigenous Peoples during health care experiences. Health professionals focus on the resilience and strength the client brings to the health care encounter.

Principles

Health professionals:

- 6.1 Work with the client to incorporate their personal strengths that will support the achievement of their health and wellness goals.
- 6.2 Recognize the potential for trauma (personal or intergenerational) in a client's life and adapt their approach to be thoughtful and respectful of this, including seeking permission before engaging in assessments or treatments.
- 6.3 Recognize that colonialism and trauma may affect how clients view, access, and interact with the health care system.
- 6.4 Recognize that Indigenous women, girls, two-spirit, queer, and trans Indigenous Peoples are disproportionately impacted by Indigenous-specific racism in the health care system and consider the impact gender-specific trauma may have on the client.
